DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Junior W. Fazenbaker Farm is situated in a mountainous area southwest of Barton. It consists of a 19th century (specific date undetermined) log house with a late 19th century frame addition now covered with aluminum siding, a log structure used as a machine shed (specific date undetermined), 5 frame outbuildings and a frame barn.

The main house has been greatly altered, as can be seen in the photocopy of a historic photo. It rests on a new, concrete block foundation, is covered with aluminum siding and has a gable roof covered with corrugated metal. It consists of a 2 story 3 bay (now altered), by 2 bay log section, measuring 18' 3" by 23' 11" with a 2-story, 3 bay by 1 bay frame ell-addition, measuring 22' 3" by 13' 10". A section of the ell rests on a stone foundation.

The fenestration placement has not changed except for the facade, southeast elevation which lacks all fenestration except for the central entrance. However, most of the windows have been replaced with one-over-one sash panes and aluminum storm windows have been added.

The log structure is constructed of v-notched logs chinked with pieces of timber--with chinking boards nailed over many of the spaces. Logs extend beyond the corners. It measures 16' 5" by 18'.
